BRILLIANT IDEAS DESERVE TO MAKE AN IMPACT

IN-COMPANY TRAINING FOR INTERNATIONAL TEAMS
AND ORGANISATIONS

Great ideas, expertise and experience only make a difference when you are able to communicate them effectively.

At ImpactAll, we help professionals strengthen the way they present, influence and communicate. Through practical in-company training, participants develop their skills, expand their communication repertoire and discover what works for them in their professional environment.

Present. Influence. Debate. Connect.

Ideal for teams who want to:

- Increase their ability to influence
- Navigate different interests
- Strengthen dialogue
- Handle resistance
- Turn ideas into action

Powerful DebatingThink clearly. Respond effectively. Make your case.

Professionals regularly need to explain their position, challenge assumptions and respond when their ideas are questioned.

Participants develop their ability to build strong arguments, listen critically, respond effectively to counterarguments and remain convincing when a discussion becomes challenging.

Ideal for teams who want to:

- Structure arguments
- Respond to counterarguments
- Communicate positions clearly
- Think on their feet
- Strengthen professional discussions

THE IMPACTALL APPROACH

Training built around your situation

No two organisations are the same. And neither are their communication challenges.

That is why we don't simply bring a standard training programme into your organisation. We start with your objectives, your people and the situations in which communication needs to make a difference.

From there, we create a practical programme that connects directly to participants' professional reality.

Tailored to your organisation

We align the learning objectives, content and exercises with your organisation, team and working environment.

Learn by doing

Communication is a skill. Participants practise, experiment, receive feedback and immediately try different approaches.

Authentic, not scripted

We don't teach people one "correct" way to communicate. We help participants understand their own style, expand their repertoire and make more conscious choices.

Real situations, direct application

Whenever possible, we work with presentations, conversations, cases and communication challenges participants actually encounter at work.

Personal attention

Our training is interactive, with plenty of room for practice, individual feedback and the different learning needs within a group.

We don't teach people to become someone else. We help them communicate more consciously and expand what they can do.

From a single training day to a long-term development programme

Every in-company training is tailored to your organisation, whether it is a focused training day, a series of sessions or a longer development programme. Together, we determine the approach that best fits your objectives, participants and organisation.

LET'S CREATE THE RIGHT PROGRAMME

What could your team achieve with even greater communication impact?

Your professionals already bring valuable expertise, experience and ideas. The opportunity is to make sure those ideas have the impact they deserve.

Perhaps your team wants to present ideas even more convincingly to clients, management or international stakeholders.

Or perhaps professionals want to become more effective at navigating different interests, handling resistance, defending their ideas or communicating across teams and backgrounds.

That is where we start.

From your ambitions to a practical training programme

We discuss what you want to achieve, who will participate and which situations matter most. Based on that conversation, we develop an English-language in-company programme that fits your organisation.

Training can take place at your organisation or at another suitable location.
